Action code: AT FIRST OPPORTUNITY

Dear Sirs

Over the past few years several large bore engines in service have benefited from the installation of the latest design updates.

These design updates have been introduced onboard the vessels by Service Engineers from MAN B&W Diesel A/S in connection with our general follow up on new designs.

As a consequence of these design updates, the engine instruction manuals originally delivered may no longer coincide with the engines.

We have therefore collected the documentation covering the various design updates for the updated K98MC/MC-C engines.

We emphasise that the collection of documentation apply to these engines in general, which means that the engine room staff must go through the collection, and extract those pages which correspond to the newly installed equipment on an individual engine, and insert the pages in the originally delivered Instruction Manual. Pages which are not relevant for the individual engine must thus be disregarded.

If convenient, we offer to send the updated documentation directly to the relevant vessels. In that case, we need a requisition from each vessel, in accordance with the International Ship and Port Facility Security Code (ISPS).
